

Amy Gannon, CMCA
Community Association Manager

Amy has been in the industry since 1996 and is a high achiever in community management. She is a holder of the CMCA designation from The Community Association Institute, licensed Real Estate Broker, and has a Business Associates Degree from Eastern Washington. She is masterful with accounting and gained her advanced accounting skills from Columbia College in Pasco. Prior to her career in Community Association Management, Amy was a Project Manager for a mid-sized construction company in Eastern Washington. When Amy's not hard at work she enjoys hiking, traveling, spending time outdoors, and enjoying her 4 children and family.