

Jennifer Rana

Community Association Manager

Jennifer brings a dynamic blend of real estate, property management, and small business experience to her role as Community Association Manager. With a career spanning over two decades, she has held leadership roles in residential and commercial property oversight, condo HOA management, business operations, and client service, all of which contribute to her effectiveness in managing diverse communities.

Before re-joining the association management field, Jennifer successfully owned and operated an independent diesel repair shop, where she earned a reputation for reliability, problem-solving, and building trust with clients and vendors alike. Prior to that, she worked in real estate and property management, where she coordinated everything from leasing and maintenance to resident relations and vendor negotiations. Her broad experience enables her to see both the big picture and the fine details—essential qualities for guiding homeowners' associations through everything from day-to-day operations to long-term capital projects.

Jennifer is known for her clear communication, proactive management style, and commitment to building strong relationships with board members, homeowners, and contractors. She takes pride in helping communities thrive through consistent follow-through, thoughtful planning, defining clear expectations and a genuine dedication to service.

Outside of work, Jennifer actively volunteers with Monroe Christian School and enjoys time with her husband & children. She also has a lifelong appreciation for diesel horsepower sports, blending her mechanical know-how with a passion for all things powerful and performance-driven.
